PROVEN RETURN ON EXPENSE

Everyone talks about how much money they are going to save you. At Scan One we understand that when considering Return-On-Expense (ROE), you want to see both hard and soft dollar savings.

HARD DOLLAR SAVINGS In all system conversions or improvements, costs associated with researching products, staff time diverted from other critical tasks and annual upgrades are often not included in ROE calculations. The hard dollar expense of hardware and software can be dwarfed by the less controllable expenses involved in system implementation. These include staff training, technical consulting and down time. And don't forget that many system implementations or upgrades don't go quite as smoothly as we would like. In fact, most do not. When there are problems, there are additional expenses.

SOFT DOLLAR SAVINGS Other soft dollar expenses may seem insignificant until they are bundled in volume. For example, have you ever calculated the cost of a single lost document? There is cost associated with interrupted production, time spent looking for the lost document, requesting a duplicate, waiting for the duplicate, rework time, and lost discounts due to delayed processing. Or how about the more elusive expenses associated with errors? There is staff time associated with finding the error, correcting the error, re-routing for approval and endless emails associated with the error. The list goes on and on.

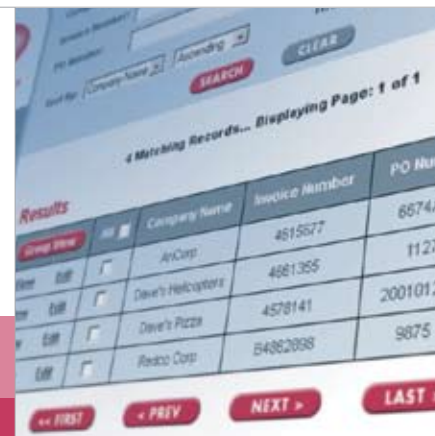

These are examples for which we can actually calculate the expense. We have not even mentioned the less tangible loss of time and dollars associated with turnover of trained staff, assigning skilled staff to perform repetitive production tasks or re-work, damaged supplier relations, staff frustration, inter-department friction and loss of focus.

RETURN ON EXPENSE At Scan One, Accounts Payable and AP automation are the heart of our business. Our product, TransAct AP, is specifically designed to leverage and optimize automation opportunities at the point of image capture. The high quality of our AP Capture product greatly increases accuracy, which subsequently decreases errors. We can automate over 80% of your pre-control work. Our Online Document Center (ODC) provides you with a portal to electronically process the remaining 10-20%, which is usually associated with exceptions. Some companies choose to use the ODC for document archival as well, another cost savings. All of the expense and headaches involved in hardware, software, process improvement, staff recruitment, training and technical expertise are in our court, not yours. We manage deadlines, production, technology and security so you and your staff can focus on important, knowledge work.

We can help you transport your AP processing into the 21st century. As Scan One's client, you will benefit from our level of skill and scale, which translates to cutting edge technology, fiercely managed process and cost savings on multiple levels, without any capital investment on your part. Best of all, we can have you up and going within weeks.
